1. Qualitative Information

(1) Consolidated Operating Results

(a) General Economic Situation

For the fiscal year ended March 31, 2025, the global economy followed a recovery trend through to the end of December, however, this recovery stalled since the start of January. In Japan, the pace of recovery in consumer spending slowed as inflationary pressures strengthened once again, and the recovery in capital expenditures also showed signs of slowdown. In the U.S., corporate activity was disrupted by concerns over the strengthening of import tariffs, while consumer spending, which had driven economic growth, also slowed. In Europe, although the downturn in production activity leveled off, consumer spending remained sluggish. Meanwhile, in China, although the real estate market remained weak, government stimulus measures helped halt the economic downturn.

The U.S. dollar-yen exchange rate depreciated from the ¥151 per dollar level at the beginning of the fiscal year to the ¥161 per dollar level in July, before temporarily appreciating to the ¥139 per dollar level in September due to the foreign exchange intervention by the Ministry of Finance and the Bank of Japan, and the narrowing of interest rate difference resulting from changes in monetary policy in Japan and the U.S. Although it subsequently depreciated to the ¥158 per dollar level at the end of December due to a rise in U.S. long-term interest rates led by concerns over U.S. inflation, it appreciated since January as Japanese long-term interest rates rose on the back of expectations of an earlier interest rate hike by the Bank of Japan, to close the fiscal year at the ¥149 per dollar level. The Nikkei Stock Average temporarily fell from the ¥40,000 level at the beginning of the fiscal year to the ¥31,000 level in early August, reflecting the appreciation of the yen in response to the interest rate hike in Japan as well as the decline in U.S. stock prices. Although it recovered to the ¥39,000 level at the end of December as U.S. stock prices rose on the back of cuts in the U.S. interest rate and other factors, it fell after January due to the appreciation of the yen and concerns about a slowdown in the global economy, closing the fiscal year at the ¥35,000 level. The yield on 10-year Japanese government bonds rose from 0.74% at the beginning of the fiscal year to the 1.1% level in July, before temporarily falling to the 0.7% level in August, due in part to the decline in the Nikkei Stock Average. However, from September, it once again rose in line with the long-term U.S. interest rates and expectations of an earlier interest rate hike by the Bank of Japan, reaching 1.49% at the end of the fiscal year. The WTI crude oil price generally remained weak, falling from the US$83 per barrel level at the beginning of the fiscal year to the US$71 per barrel level at the end of the fiscal year on the back of plans to increase production by major oil-producing countries and a decline in demand for crude oil due to the economic slowdown in China.

2. Summary Information (Notes)

(1) Significant changes in the consolidation scope during the period :

ITOCHU resolved to dissolve and liquidate Retail Investment Company, LLC (hereinafter referred to as “RIC”), a specified subsidiary of ITOCHU, on December 12, 2024.

Since the liquidation was completed in the fourth quarter of this fiscal year, RIC is no longer a specified subsidiary.

(2) Changes in accounting policies and accounting estimates

(a) Changes in accounting policies required by IFRS      None

(b) Other changes      None

(c) Changes in accounting estimates      None

With regards to the impact from the Russia-Ukraine situation, ITOCHU Group (ITOCHU and its subsidiaries) has exposure including resource-related investments in Russia, the ratio of them to our total assets is less than 1% as of the end of this fiscal year.

As a result of continued appropriate accounting treatment reflecting the most recent situation for our Russia-Ukraine-related assets, we do not expect a material impact on our operating results and financial position.

3. Basic Concept on the Selection of Accounting Standards

ITOCHU Group deals with a wide variety of businesses with a diverse range of industries through its global network. Anticipating further global expansion in the future and in order to improve the practicability and international comparability of the company’s financial information, we have prepared our consolidated financial statements in conformity with International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS) from the annual report for the year ended March 31, 2014.

4. Outlook for the Fiscal Year Ending March 31, 2026

Regarding the global economic outlook for the next fiscal year, the Japanese economy is forecast to remain resilient as consumer spending is expected to resume its expansion due to the accelerated pace of wage increases and lower inflation, and growth is expected in capital expenditures in response to labor shortages, although exports are expected to stagnate due to the increase in U.S. import tariffs. In the U.S., consumer spending is expected to slow against a backdrop of increasing inflationary pressure from higher import tariffs and rising interest rates on consumer loans, while residential investment is also expected to remain sluggish due to continued high long-term interest rates. In Europe, the economic recovery is concerned to be delayed due to weak exports resulting from the increase in U.S. import tariffs. In China, although the government's proactive fiscal policy and continued monetary easing are expected to prevent a major economic downturn, the economy is projected to continue to slow due to ongoing weakness in the real estate market, and additional U.S. tariffs on China which are expected to dampen exports.

With regard to the U.S. dollar-yen exchange rate, the yen is expected to trade around the ¥140 per dollar level as Japan's long-term interest rate continues to rise gradually. The WTI crude oil price is expected to trend around the US$60 per barrel level due to sluggish demand resulting from a slowdown in the global economy, although supply concerns remain amid heightened tensions in the Middle East.

Under these management circumstances, despite considering the risk of economic downturn such as the impact of tariff measures by the U.S., we expect consolidated net profit attributable to ITOCHU of 900.0 billion yen for the fiscal year ending March 31, 2026 through the steady accumulation of profit. We aim to achieve sustainable enhancement in corporate value by realizing further growth under our Management Policy, "The Brand-new Deal", which serve as our compass for the long-term.

Thus, the actual results could be substantially different from the above statements due to such factors including, but not limited to, global economic and market conditions, and currency exchange rate fluctuations.

5. Shareholder Returns Policy / Distribution of Profit

Shareholder Returns Policy

ITOCHU has set a dividend for the fiscal year ending March 31, 2026 as the higher of ¥200 per share or 30% dividend payout ratio.

We will actively and continuously execute share buybacks in consideration of market conditions and situation of cash allocation, aiming at total payout ratio of 50%.

Distribution of Profit

ITOCHU plans to pay a dividend of ¥200 per share for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2025.
(an interim dividend of ¥100 per share has already been paid)
